

Cisco makes good on its ROI

We purchased Cisco due to a sense of urgency brought about by the results of an external penetration test. Our organization is relatively small, and the IT focus had been on everything but security for a while. Cisco immediately made clear its ROI due to the overwhelming visibility it provided to events that would likely had never been noticed had we not integrated Stealthwatch into our environment. It is hard to pick a favorite aspect at this juncture besides the Stealthwatch solution as a whole.
