How our organization uses SecureX threat response:

We use it to aid in triaging malware and other security threats in our environment, and to provide quick response to any detected threats.

Would you recommend SecureX threat response?

Without Threat Response, we would largely be “flying blind”, as we wouldn’t have a unified picture of our environment to look at. We also would not have the ability to dissect an incident down to the point of original execution with a timestamp, and any coordinated response efforts would be much more manual and labor intensive.
