Gusto has everything — payroll, benefits, time off — in one system which makes everything easier for both employees and employers. I don't get questions anymore about where to find things because everyone knows that it's all in Gusto. Our previous platform was supposed to do all this as well, but implementation was poor, errors were common, and we ended up spending way too much time cleaning up the provider's messes. Gusto has proven to be the better solution — it prevents headaches, saves the company money, and gives us all peace of mind.

Even as someone who has managed benefits selection for our company, I still find the task of decoding benefits daunting. Gusto makes it much easier to understand what my benefits are by breaking plans down in the "What's Covered" tab, providing links to our plan's documentation, listing contact information for my provider, and breaking down cost and coverage periods.
