Gusto benefits streamlines everything. Before Gusto, we used a broker, and even then I was doing too much work and the benefits were not as visible to our employees. Instead of employees asking me for ID cards, to see what's covered, or make changes, and me having to figure it out or ask the broker, now they have all of that at their fingertips so that they can figure it out themselves. Which saves us both time because they can quickly find the answer they are looking for. Plus literally everything is under one roof so they can access anything they need. Moving everything to Gusto was a no brainer.
