How our organization uses Ranorex Studio:

Primarily Functional UI regression testing with a heavy emphasis on database testing. A suite of client/server applications supporting the transportation industry which can be heavily customized. We have also done some web and mobile-based automation. Senior automation engineers construct a reliable framework that manual testers utilize to automate their respective applications.

Would you recommend Ranorex Studio?

Yes. Ranorex Studio offers a low entry bar into automation but also allows for a senior automation engineer to build a framework to support intensive testing of a complex suite of applications.
