

Christian Savaria, a CMM Programmer at Savage Arms, would be very likely to recommend Hexagon Manufacturing Intelligence for this reason:

My training at Hexagon led immediately to an upwards move at my company. Their facility in North Kingstown, RI sets the standard for cleanliness and modernization. Instructors are experts and class sizes are small, leading to no questions being left unanswered. Plenty of time after classes to further develop skills being taught throughout the day. Awesome experience both weeks I have spent there.
