

A Chief Technology Officer at a small business telecommunications services company would be very likely to recommend MongoDB:

MongoDb provides a very robust product offering to build modern products and offerings that have an inherent need to be agile and emergent in their design.

The administrative and operative ease are a pleasure to experience:

- We are able to start with very small cluster instances and scale-up on a need basis;
- The auto-upgrade feature allows us to have the peace-of-mind from a security operations perspective; and
- We almost do not have a specialized DBA on the team to manage this database anymore.

Source: Chief Technology Officer, Small Business Telecommunications Services Company

TechValidate
by SurveyMonkey

Validated

Published: Jun. 16, 2022 TVID: 3F0-0A8-FC2

Based on a response of 9 to the question "On a scale of 0-10, how likely would you be to recommend MongoDB?"