" Public company data is most often used to derive comparable analysis. For industries with enough maturity we use your public data to look at potential outcomes of an investment. The data is on par with sources like yahoo finance, but we find ourselves staying in pitchbook for efficiency.

— Principal, Medium Enterprise Financial Services Company