

I can take the product-centric view of things with me to other positions. Our product management team was dissolved at the end of 2019 so I'm not a product manager anymore, now I'm a data scientist, but the product point of view helps me to keep our customers' point of view more in mind when they provide garbage data to us and our sales team commits to unreasonable timelines instead of deeply discounting our products.

— Business Professional, Small Business Computer Services Company

Source: Business Professional, Small Business Computer Services Company

TechValidate
by SurveyMonkey

Validated

Published: Aug. 3, 2022 TVID: 508-CC8-1BA