

SolarWinds UK National Health Service Satisfaction Rating

A Network Engineer of the National Health Service is very likely to recommend SolarWinds for the following reason:

I've used similar applications, including Open Source, but SolarWinds is the most feature rich and straight forward to configure. The support on Thwack is great as well, as the YouTube videos are very good. The technical support is always helpful. My recent attendance to the SolarWinds National Government User Group was well presented and it made me aware of features that I needed to know about.
