Directly after implementing them, we had a major attack effort against the city. The SonicWall firewalls were able to prevent entry into the network. We found out shortly after this had happened that the Cisco firewall had a vulnerability that was not general knowledge at the time that would have enabled the attackers to gain entry into our network.

— Chief Information Officer, State & Local Government