How our organization uses Stack Overflow for Teams:

We use it internally and for beta testing purposes. We include our Beta testers in our teams in order to interact and to provide feedback.

Knowledge and conversations are starting to be more frequent and knowledge is being accumulated/preserved in a repository for later questions.

Conversations changed from “one to one” to “one to many” with side collaborators. That increased team collaboration and knowledge sharing.

Would you recommend Stack Overflow for Teams?

Yes. Many people, especially developers, use Stack Overflow so the UX is natural for them. If you have a “sharing and growing together culture” it is a very good tool.
