How our organization uses Stack Overflow for Teams:

The organisation is very decentralised, stack overflow provides a single location for knowledge sharing that isn't bound up in a SharePoint tree, or GitHub wiki permissions. It is the only true cross-team knowledge share and has encouraged developers in multiple countries to share their expertise across borders.

Would you recommend Stack Overflow for Teams?

Yes, particularly for larger decentralised teams where it is difficult to determine who possesses knowledge of a given product or system.
