Introduction

This case study of a medium enterprise computer software company is based on a May 2020 survey of The Skills Connection customers by TechValidate, a 3rd-party research service. The profiled company asked to have their name blinded to protect their confidentiality.

“The money we spent with The Skills Connection proved to be a great investment. Both our Analyst Relations spokespeople and I have received significant value from our interactions with The Skills Connection

Our first engagement was for AR Spokespeople Training. In a second engagement we used consulting time to develop a Wave briefing story and deck.

We would certainly recommend them. They are a knowledgeable, experienced, personable and engaging team. Important for me, they were able to provide the evidence of best practices to our stakeholders to validate what I’d been preaching.”
